“ Diane,

I was a coworker of John's and we flew together for Flights for Life on one occasion. I had been with FFL for quite some time and John came on board. I know he loved the "job" of helping others. He was a great pilot and had a ton of enthusiasm for what he did.

While he has "Flown West", I'm sure he's smiling and enjoying the ride.

Please accept my sincerest condolences.

Kurt Nelson.

“ Jon was a kind, helpful friend to all. We worked together for years but our friendship really started when he moved to another group and we started going to lunch weekly and quite often daily. He was a patient and supportive listener through my divorce and remarriage. The most fun we had was talking about our projects because we are both handymen that can fix anything. We both thought outside the box and had some pretty cool designs and clever ideas to repair things or to make something better. Of course, we had some pretty crazy, off-the-wall stuff too.

I enjoyed the times at your house, just talking, sharing, eating, doing little jobs with Jon and the pig roast for Dongelli Deli Day, even if we didn't get any sleep.

God Bless you Diane

“ Diane my deepest heart felt emotions are with you. I know the loss you are feeling, I had to rely on God, family and friends to carry me through. It seems like yesterday that we met on our vacant properties here in Arizona as we started building our new homes how time flies that was 19 years ago my mind is flooded with our impromptu day trips as we tried to find a new place to go for breakfast and the Saturday nights that we would rent movies and Jon would pop us a bowl full of fresh hot popcorn and the dogs would want their treats. I remember the night you guys helped us chaperon Angel's first girl, boy B-Day party. I remember they were play the song YMCA by the Village People and Jon couldn't believe kids were still listening to the music of the 60's and 70's in the 90's. Cry out to God for his strength and understanding and let your family and friends help you thru this loss the days do get better and it's ok to cry I still find myself crying 2 years later. I'll be here when you return to Arizona we can cry together. Jon was a gift from God he was a great husband to you and friend to so many. Cherish the memories. Love you, Bev Roberson

“ Diane: My heart truly goes out to you. Jon was such a special person. He loved to try anything and everything - and after he mastered one thing, he'd be off to the next. I was so impressed with his zest for life. It was as if the world was a huge playground for him and he had to sample everything it had to offer. And you were so good to support him in each and every thing. You were true partners in life. That is very rare indeed.

He was such a kind and helpful person to others - always fixing or building something. I wish I still had the desk he made me to work on while I was in college. I was so appreciative. And his love for his dogs was just the most precious thing to watch. But he had a smarty pants side and I enjoyed that too. I'll never forget his boyish grin when he was messin' with you.

You two took very good care of me during difficult times in my life and I wish I would have thanked him more than I did. So, thank you Jon for making such a difference in my life along with countless others. I will miss you. We will take good care of your Diane. Till we all meet again, dear friend.

Love,

“ Diane: I am so sorry for the loss of your best friend and husband. Jon and I worked together, he was special, kind and helpfull. He did some work for my family and when I told them he passed the sadness they express you thought they knew him for many years, that was the kind of infectious person he was. The first time he drove up to my house in his ambulance we laughed and laughed, I told him my neighbor was going to come over to see if I was ok. I will miss my friend and the best handyman. God Bless Prudence
